

I am sure you can find something better to regulate than traffic and weather on satellite radio. At least something less transparent in support of special interest. If I pay for the service and they want to provide the service why is it anyone else's business? Maybe you would be better serving of your responsibilities to the taxpayers by trying to control big media companies. Maybe variety would come back to commercial radio and I would not be forced to spend my hard earned after tax money on an alternate source of music and information.
